

MARY ANDERSON.

The Fair American Takes English Theatre-Goers by Storm—Her Debut in London.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Previous to Miss Anderson's debut as a stage actress, she had been a well-known and a short talk with the fair American as to her impressions of England. Miss Anderson said she was charmed with London, and those places of historical interest there impressed her beyond her ability to tell. She was especially impressed by a visit to the Tower, and found the ropes of London absolutely seductive. She thought the theatre of New York. She thought the theatres of London wonderfully well managed, and approved of ladies taking off their head gear when there. With reference to Irving, she thought him a great artist and was sure he would please the Americans. English audiences were colder than American, and apt to be more critical. She felt nervous as to the results of her appearance before one of them, but anticipated success.

Miss Anderson had been sufficiently long in London to have become personally known to many of the leaders of the art world of the metropolis, and it must be admitted that she had scored a preliminary triumph in winning golden opinions of herself as a woman before the opportunity of her debut as an artist had been given her. She had been warmly taken by the hand by some of the most potent arbiters of artistic taste, and the presence of a large and brilliant first-night audience was assured to her. Still, if it were certain that there would be a large audience, it was equally certain that it would be a critical one, and that her laurels, if they were to be won, would have to be won by artistic merit calmly judged, and not by the artistic merit ascribed to her by the canons which have been set up by the most exigent of London assemblies, a Lyceum first-night audience. This fact was known to none more thoroughly than to the debutante herself. The house, which has long witnessed the highest exhibitions of English dramatic art, was crowded, and it seemed as though the whole of artistic and critical London was assembled within its walls. The debutante's reception in the first act was distinctly friendly, and soon became tinged with enthusiasm. Her figure was seen to be commanding from its height, although girlish in its suppleness and almost serpentine slenderness, and the simple and colorless drapery in which she had dressed the part of Parthenia lent grace to her pose and carriage, which were always statuesque, without bearing the least suggestion of study or self-consciousness. The white-robed figure, with sinuous arms bared to the shoulder, and abundant brown hair hanging freely from the shapely head, with the tremulous mouth and the curl of the throat, upper lip involuntarily suggesting pathetic power was a revelation, even to the eyes of the audience who had seen the girl in the conventional dress of the drawing-room or the playhouse, and whose criticisms rapidly melted in the glow of an involuntary enthusiasm.

When at last she began to speak her richly modulated voice provoked another salvo of applause. During the earlier portion of this act there was a slight tremor, and the actress seemed hardly at her ease, but this quickly went away, and she became the noble, and made her entrance of the half-savage, half-idyllic romance of "Ingomar." The applause was generously renewed at the close of Parthenia's interview with Polydor, in which the maiden's noble devotion to filial love and duty was powerfully portrayed, and her speech in which she foreshadowed the resolution of self-sacrifice was enthusiastically received. At the close of this act she was twice called before the curtain and applauded to the echo. The same recognition was given at the end of the second act, and floral offerings were raised upon the stage.

The third act confirmed the verdict of the other two, and decided beyond cavil the triumph success of the debut. Mr. Barnes, the Ingomar of the play, was twice compared to the cultured critics of the metropolis again became the champion of one of the most speedy and spontaneous successes of the London stage. After the performance the more deliberate judgment of the foyer and the clubs was found to have ratified the verdict of the play house. It was decided by the coolest of the critics that Miss Anderson's performance had challenged the highest standard of criticism, and had fairly stood the ordeal, that she was equal to the best, and that in voice and gesture, in play of eye and fancy, and in the delineation of human passions and human emotions she had shown herself worthy of the ovation which her genius had enforced.

MILLIONS IN IT.

The Dissipated Daughter of a Famo Half Breed Said to Own the Town.

FARGO, D. T., Sept. 3.—Francis Peronto died at the county hospital at this place recently. Peronto was a half-breed Sioux, born on Goose Lake reservation. A few years ago, in advance of immigration, he settled on a homestead at this point, and on which a large portion of the city of Fargo now stands. The Northern Pacific railroad company put their road through his land, and acted independently of him without giving him any consideration. Peronto had lately sued the company for compensation, and the case is now pending before the supreme court of the territory. If the case is decided against the company Peronto's only heirs, a daughter, will reap a rich reward, as some of the most valuable property in the city stands on the land in litigation. Peronto has lived in a shanty near the town, and was very dissipated, as is also his daughter.

Anti-Prohibition in Iowa.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Sept. 3.—How Horace Boles, of this city, the leader of the anti-prohibition movement in this state, addressed a large audience here last evening. He said that prohibition had been a failure. He said that the cry of the home against the saloon was a libel upon the thousands of our citizens. Every voter should let his vote represent the dictates of his own conscience, regardless of party dictation. As a settlement of the liquor question he favored a license not so light as to be disregarded, nor so low that it would not pay the increased taxation which the traffic brings about.

No Texas Cattle Fever in Michigan.

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 3.—A number of prominent stockmen and veterinarians have been interviewed in regard to the cattle fever reported prevalent in Genesee county, and they pronounced the rumor that it had its origin in the fact that a few cases of milk fever, of a very mild form, have been reported during the past week. No fears are entertained of the invasion of the Texas cattle fever in this country.

Danger of Barbed Wire.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 3.—Joe Boyer, of this city, met with a fearful accident near Danbar, which will probably prove fatal. He was thrown from a horse against a barbed wire fence and so badly cut that he hopes he is entertained of his recovery. One lung is entirely gone and one of his legs is cut terribly, and his left side laid open.

A Clergyman's Testimony.

W. E. Gifford, pastor M. E. church, Bothwell, Ont., was for two years a sufferer with dyspepsia in its worst form, until as he states "life became an unbearable burden." Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery cured him, and he tells us in a recent letter that he could never have the country for dyspepsia and liver complaint.

A committee, with the Prince of Orange at its head, has been formed here to collect subscriptions toward the relief of the sufferers by the calamity.

Journalistic Changes in Detroit.

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—Frederick Morley, late superintendent of state immigration, formerly manager of the Detroit Advertiser, has subsequently of the Detroit Post, has assumed entire control of the editorial and business departments of the Post and Tribune.

Mr. Morley has a splendid reputation as a journalist and newspaper manager, and was the confidential friend of Frank O. Chandler. He is an influential Republican, whose counsel has always been sought and received with respect by the news.

What changes, if any, will be made in the staff of the paper are not yet known, but probably none.

The first number of The Detroit Evening Journal has been issued. It is a handsome, four-page paper, bright and clean, and is published by the Detroit Evening Journal Co., of which C. C. Packard, late of The Advertiser, is the principal manager. The principal backer is supposed to be D. R. Locke, of the Toledo Blade. To counteract the sale of the new paper The Evening Journal issued a noon issue two hours earlier than usual, and it is reported, gave away copies to the newsboys.

DEATH OF CONGRESSMAN CUTTS

Of the Sixth Iowa District.—Sketch of His Life.

Das Morras, Ia., Sept. 3.—The Hon. Mr. Das Morras, member of congress from the Sixth Iowa district, died at his home in Oskaloosa, Iowa, Tuesday, Sept. 1, of tuberculosis of the lungs, his ailment being of long standing.

Mr. Cutts was born in Orwell, Addison County (formerly Rutland county), Vt., May 22, 1833. In 1855 he removed to Iowa and practiced law, settling finally at Oskaloosa.

In May, 1861, he was elected to the state legislature to fill a vacancy. In 1863 he was elected to the state senate, and served for four years. In 1866 he was again chosen for the lower house, and in 1867 he was appointed attorney general for the state.

At the death of Henry O'Connor, he was subsequently elected twice to the same office, in 1870 and 1871. In 1870 he was elected to the Republican candidate for congress in the Sixth district, making a strong canvass, which is believed to have had much to do with fastening upon him the lung trouble which resulted in his death. The contest was very close, but the seat was given to Cutts on account of irregularities in some of the returns. Last year Mr. Cutts, though in precarious health, was re-nominated. The Democrats and Greenbackers had united before in opposition to him, but this time the fusion movement failed, and different candidates were nominated. Cutts was elected by a plurality of about 3,000, though the combined vote against him was greater than his own by over 5,000 votes.

THE IRON TRADE.

Limited Demand at Unchanged Prices and Consumption Large.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 3.—There has been no material change in the iron trade since our date of last report. The demand has fallen considerably, as compared with what it was a month ago, and the tone of the market is weaker, although prices remain unchanged. A few weeks ago consumers generally became impressed with the belief that hard pan had been reached, and that an advance was not probable; hence, they bought pretty freely, and the market toned up considerably in consequence. Within the past two weeks, however, the demand has fallen off materially, and as already stated, prices are easier, with increased offerings, and consumers are refusing to anticipate future wants. In some particulars, however, the situation is still favorable to the producing interest. Nearly all our home furnaces are sold ahead, and are not anxious to make any additional sales; and then, as the mills are nearly all at work, and the consumption is large, the demand for iron is still maintained. While admitting a fall, furnace men are by no means despondent, nor is there any good reason why they should be. The probability is that business will again pick up within the next few weeks, and brokers generally look for a good substantial trade up until the close of the year.

THE DEADLY PORTABLE.

Four Persons Killed and Five Injured by an Explosion.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 3.—An Ashton, Dak., section to the Pioneer Press says: At 10 a. m. the boiler of a straw thrasher engine exploded on the farm of F. B. Taylor, nine miles east of this place, killing four persons and seriously injuring five others. Fragments of the boiler were blown into the air, and one large traction wheel was blown eighty yards. The cause of the explosion was the water running low and the boiler overheated. The thrasher engine was pumping cold water into the boiler. The thrashing machine and about 50 bushels of wheat in the stack were burned. The list of killed and wounded is as follows:

Killed—George Storm, William Brownell, Thomas Flower, and Clarence Reed, a 10-year-old son of J. N. Reed, of Chicago.

Injured—Harvey Brown, Alfred Taylor, Dave Regmer, Frank P. Smith and Pablo Walker.

All are badly scalded and bruised. The body of Thomas Flower was thrown 125 yards. Loss about $250.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Ten Thousand Ohio Miners to Strike Monday.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—A general strike is about to occur in the Muskegon coal district. Of 2,000 miners will quit work. The operators remain firm in their refusal to grant the advance of 10 cents per ton demanded by the miners, and the latter are equally obstinate. Rhodes & Co., the Cleveland coal operators in the Muskegon district, state that they have a surplus of coal on hand, and no immediate results of the strike will be felt.

THE MERRY MAIDEN AND THE BOOK AGENT.

PORT JARVIS, N. Y.—The elopement of a young lady of this place with a book agent is now attracting considerable attention here. The book agent came to town about two weeks ago, and in several days made the acquaintance of Llewellyn Gardner, a girl of 18 years. They were constantly together, and suddenly they disappeared from town. The man, whose name is C. C. Ross, and who lived in Brooklyn, was arrested at Middleboro and brought to this place with Miss Gardner and put in the village jail.

Young Nut's Trial.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 3.—It has been difficult to obtain counsel to assist prosecuting Attorney Young in the trial of young Nut, who shot Duke, after the latter had killed his (Nut's) father, and written a letter announcing that he had debarbed the sister and the mother. David Patterson, of Pittsburg, appears in the case, and assists District Attorney Johnson. The trial began Sept. 6. Many gratuitous offers of counsel for the defendant have been made, but it is not yet known who will appear in the case.

A Scratch Verdict.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The report of the committee that has been investigating Supervising Architect Hill is now before the Senate. A majority report will be made by the committee. "We shall not convict Mr. Hill of murder in the first degree, but on the other hand we shall not acquit him. There have been a good many things in his management of the office that are open to severe criticism, and the report will deal plainly with them."

Villard's Guests.

LAKE MINNETONKA, Minn., Sept. 3.—About 350 of the guests of the Northern Pacific resort spent Sunday together here. Complaint is made that the earl of Onslow demands for himself and lady a special coach, with luggage for his personal effects, and sent his servants to find accommodation, among the invited guests. Secretary Teller has joined the party. Gen. Grant and Wm. M. Devarts are members of the party.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and which have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in consequence of the fact that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by the testimony of those who have used them. The reputa-exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. These medicines have been the basis of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians in the world. Very few persons believe are brimings and frauds in the conscious pieces or the intent of their makers.

The people, who are necessarily the judges, both of doctors and of medicines say that these medicines are not sold in the East and if such a person is looking for anything, that fact is established.

A FACT—Facts are established by testimony. The weight of the testimony is the most important thing in the business. The following unimpeachable testimony underscores Dow's Liver Cure a fact of our time.

We, the undersigned, have used Dow's

Liver Cure ourselves and our families, and we can recommend it to all who are troubled with liver troubles. It is recommended, and we pronounce it the most reliable and efficient medicine yet introduced in this country, and unhesitatingly recommend it to all sufferers.

Mr. Williams is well known in this city, and his many young friends will now extend their congratulations. The same paper also has this item: "Yesterday afternoon Ellsworth Williams, of this city, drove a horse from Al Snyder's livery stable to Rockford and returned as far as Rockton, when the horse dropped dead from exhaustion."

The New Home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy are now occupying their new home in the third ward having moved there last week. The house is one of the most costly in the city, and is located on one of the most commanding sites to be found in Janesville. The building is of light-colored brick, 46 by 50, two stories high, and has a beautiful finished gothic roof. The architecture is not confined to any particular style, but is made up in a measure, of the Queen Anne and the early English styles, that give it a degree of elegance that otherwise would be difficult to secure. The vestibule is laid with handsome tile, and the large hall is covered with inlaid oak, and the ceilings and general finishings of the hall and the parlor and sitting room, are done in gumwood, the beauty of which is too well known to require a description. In the parlor is a solid mahogany and an elaborately wrought mantel with Chelsea tiling. The dining room, the laboratory and the bath room, with all their furnishings, are handsomely finished in oak, and the china closet and the pantry are done in pine and butternut. The bed-rooms are most artistically finished in pine, and beautiful mantels and elegant tiles ornament each room. The stairway is probably the finest in the city, and on the wall side are richly stained glass windows, with designs upon them representing the four seasons. The house is supplied with electric bells and speaking tubes of the latest and the best styles. In the basement are the vegetable room, general store rooms, and the laundry, with the latter being supplied with hot and cold water. The house will be heated by one of the largest Raby furnaces. This was taken on trial, and if not altogether satisfactory, will be replaced by a steam furnace.

The exterior is finished in olive green, a color that has a very charming effect. Here and there, both within and without, are touches of taste and excellent judgment in beautifying and making convenient the new home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy. Much of this was suggested by Mrs. Lovejoy herself, and those who give this elegant home a visit will readily see that she has been unerring and quite progressive and original in her suggestions. Of course the general plan of the house was arranged by Mr. Douglas, of Milwaukee, an architect of excellent skill and wide reputation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy have a very wide circle of friends in Janesville who will heartily wish that they may long live to enjoy the elegance and the comforts of their new home.

This handsome atlas contains the maps of all the countries of the globe, the United States by states, diagrams showing the comparative size of the countries; population, area, religion, races, product, wealth and debt of the United States; railroads and telegraph of every country in the world; population of the principal cities; electoral vote in 1884; population of the United States by states; value of land and railroad mileage in the United States; religious divisions of the world; and a great variety of useful statistics and information of value to the possessor, which he sells for the low price of $2.90. He also has an excellent map of Wisconsin, which costs only one dollar. The stock is large and prices very low. The proprietor proposes to make a specialty of glass goods, and being a manufacturer of glass ware, understanding the business in all its grades, will demonstrate to the people of Janesville that they can obtain all kinds of glass-ware right here at home as cheap as the same articles can be purchased at any other point. He invites the public to call and examine his stock of goods.

Tony Denier's Humpty Dumpty Troupe.

The above troupe, which has been in this city for the past week, rehearsing in Myers opera house, made its first appearance before a public audience for the season of 1893-4 on Saturday evening, under the management of Mr. George S. Sydney. The troupe was greeted by a full house, and in return the people were favored with a first class performance throughout. The pantomime performance was made the more pleasing by the excellent acting of the clowns, Messrs. C. W. Ray and G. D. Melville, then of whom two better clowns cannot be found in the country. The numbers of specialty acts, were all of a high order, and it would be difficult to outline some of them. The rope-skipping song and dance specialty by Miss Leona Fontainebleau was new upon the stage, and really an interesting part of the programme. The tumbling of the Leoshardt brothers, and the horizontal bar performance by the Lorbeys, excelled any similar performance ever attempted in this city. The performing dogs of Prof. Gleason were also very amusing, and showed great care and painstaking in training. The bat and bottle balancing by the clown Melville drew applause from all. The entire programme was well rendered, and the large audience were well pleased with the entertainment.

The company left on Saturday evening by special train for Milwaukee, where they appear this evening.

Young Frank Swaney Accidentally Shoots Himself while Hunting near Milton.

Our correspondent at Milton sends us the following particulars of the accident:—

Shooting of Frank Swaney at Bower's lake, near Milton, yesterday:

Fred Swaney, son of William Swaney, aged about 14 years, was accidentally killed Sunday afternoon while hunting near Bower's lake, a mile northeast of this village. He was in company with a grandson of Smith Bleisseld, who tells the following story of the way in which the accident occurred: Swaney was on the bank above the lake and his companion went down to the edge of the water to secure the oars of the boat which they had been using. He heard the gun, and looking up saw Swaney rolling down the bank. The charge entered the left eye, and death was immediate.

A coronor's jury was summoned by Justice E. F. Clarke, consisting of Messrs. A. O. Gifford, E. T. Hamilton, D. Williams, W. H. Corey, H. W. Coon, L. B. Howe, who, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by his own hands. The grief stricken family have the hearty sympathy of everybody in their terrible loss.

A Grand Exhibit.

The Milwaukee Exposition opens to the public on Thursday, September 6th, with the finest exhibition of industrial products and works of art ever presented to the people of the Northwest. The opening will be marked by appropriate ceremonies, and the attendance on that day promises to be very large. As a usual thing, Exhibitions of the magnitude of the Milwaukee enterprise are not complete the first day the doors are thrown open, but by unusual energy on the part of the management and a kindred spirit shown by exhibitors, the Milwaukee exposition will be complete in every detail on September 6th, the greater part of the exhibits being in place much earlier than ever before.

The interest manifested in the coming exhibition is very great throughout the entire Northwest, and large numbers of visitors will doubtless visit the Cream City during September and October.

The exposition management feel secure in urging people to visit this exposition and view the many attractions to be seen within the beautiful building, which is rapidly filling with grand exhibits. There may be found that which will instruct as well as entertain, and the resulting selling excursion tickets, no better time of the year to visit Milwaukee could be selected. Concerts will be given three times each day; in the morning Mr. J. L. Day will preside at the grand organ, which is pronounced by all to be the finest instrument in this country. Every afternoon and evening Bach's full orchestra will render the most beautiful and this with the grand programmes, and the brilliant electric lights, and tastefully arranged booths, viewed by throngs of delighted visitors, will present a scene of unusual splendor. Don't miss it.

"Tell your Aunt Maria, baby's got the cramp." "N. K. Brown's Ess. Jamaica Ginger cures cramp."
